Had Extraordinary Career

Solomon, King Of Zulus, Was Most Powerful Native In Africa
Solomon, the King of the Zulus, is dead. He was only 34. He leaves 61 widows.

He was the most envied black man in Africa, and he had modern ideas. The Government allowed him £1,000 a year, and this enabled him to indulge in his ruling passion—motor cars.

He was the first native to buy a motor car, and after the joy of possessing one nothing could hold him back. He bought car after car—Rolls-Royces, Hispanics, Cadillacs, Packards. He insisted on a white chauffeur, and he loved speed.

He bought so many cars at one time that he fell in debt. That rather curbed his passion, and he had only six cars at the time of his death.

King Solomon always held his court dressed in an omnibus conductor's cap, a blue suit with gold braid trimmed with leopard skin and a leopard skin girdle. He carried a large sword, and had hundreds of them. If he could not carry a sword he carried an umbrella.

Litigation was another great love. At the slightest excuse he would send for his favorite lawyer to hold him back—and open a lawsuit. He lost many, and once, when he won a libel action, he declared a national holiday among his people.

A favorite recreation was shopping in Durban. He had such a bad reputation among the white traders, however, that they always refused to give him credit. When he had enough cash he would first buy a car, then a gaudy uniform, and then a sword—or an umbrella.

On one of these shopping expeditions he saw a porcelain bath. He had never seen a bath before, and his mind was so captivated by it that he had it and it conveyed with great ceremony to one of his eight kraals.

There it was installed in the royal hot and every night and morning Solomon seriously took a bath, watched by his awe-stricken wives.

Wherever he went the natives flocked around him, cheering loudly—he was their king. Whenever he visited a town the natives would leave their work and run to his car. The police at first diverted his procession to the back streets, but the congestion became so great that no one was allowed to move. After that the royal car was allowed to take the main streets, and his adoring subjects held up the traffic.

Solomon was the most powerful native in Africa. He despised the ways of his great ancestor Cetewayo, who fought the Boers, yet because of his blood, he could have raised a great army in a week. He was converted by a missionary.

The death of this king, who hated the idolatry of his fathers, and dressed himself in European musical comedy clothes signifying the passing of the last influential native ruler.

An Old London Paper

Issue Of June 1792 Found At Swift Current
Copy of an old London semi-weekly newspaper, the St. James Chronicle, dated June 24-27, 1792, has been found at Swift Current.

The front page, centred by a crest of King George IV, carries personal items regarding the royal family. Note is made that his majesty had been riding until 2 o'clock when he returned for dinner and that "the queen and princesses went out riding in post coach and four and returned to the lodge."

The issue also records a speech by President Adams to the United States Congress delivered in April, 1797.

Centenarian Tree Saved

Bournemouth, England, has saved its famous centenarian tree, which has been the glory of Stourhead Avenue. The street runs beneath its branches and many motorists wished it removed because it interfered with traffic. The city council has ruled that the tree shall stay and that motorists must not run into it.

Five of them have lost their lives in previous attempts. The British record set two years ago by Lieutenant Smith was 408 miles an hour.

Japanese Minister To Canada

Representative Of Mikado Is Very Popular At Ottawa

I. M. Tokugawa, for four years past, Japanese Minister to Canada, has gone to Tokyo on six-month leave of absence. Before being designated by the Mikado to Ottawa he served his country at its legations in China, England, Australia and New Zealand. Under fifty years of age, alert, sophisticated, courteous—he is a diplomat who wins his way into the hearts of foreign peoples by a quiet dignity, courtly manners and a slow smile.

Very popular among the diplomatic corps at Ottawa, of which he is the dean, he is persona grata with the Canadian official world. Everyone from the Governor-General and Prime Minister down thinks well of him. He is especially welcome at social functions, and is justly celebrated for his own hospitality. At home in Japan he is one of the aristocrats. The son of Prince and Princess Tokugawa, his wife is sister to Prince Tadashi Shimadzu, son by marriage to the Empress of Japan. Mrs. Tokugawa remained at home to supervise the education of three children. His eldest daughter, Miss Togo, who has been with the Minister in Canada, accompanies him home. His son may return with him for a visit at Ottawa.

For two and a half centuries, until 1867, says the Ottawa Journal, the head of the house of Tokugawa was the Shogun of Japan. Explaining this post, the Minister has spoken of it as a sort of hereditary prime-ministership. The Emperor resided then in Kyoto, and the Shogun in Tokyo. The present imperial palace in Tokyo, in fact, was the residence of the Shogun, and it was there the Minister's father, Prince Tokugawa, was born when his father—the Minister's grandfather—was serving as the last of the Shoguns.

In 1867 all the authority of Government was returned to the Emperor, but the Tokugawa family continued to deserve and enjoy rank, honors and high prestige. Prince Tokugawa is president of the House of Peers and a power in public life.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Use Waste Gas

Absorption Plant At Turner Valley Put Into Operation

The absorption plant of the Royalite Oil Company, built as an addition to its refining plant, was put into operation last week. The plant absorbs the leading gas and oil field refuse, 35,000,000 cubic feet of "tail" or waste gas was passing through the equipment with an undetermined amount of gasoline being extracted. The "tail" gas was previously allowed to burn as waste.

Easy To Prove

It may be hard to believe, but it is true that:

12 x 9 plus 3 = 111
123 x 9 plus 4 = 1111
1234 x 9 plus 5 = 11111
12345 x 9 plus 6 = 111111
123456 x 9 plus 7 = 1111111
1234567 x 9 plus 8 = 11111111
12345678 x 9 plus 10 = 111111111

Farm Machinery In Australia

In the last 15 years the value of agricultural machinery in Australia has tripled. It is now worth $180,000,000. This increase has enabled farmers and pastoralists to till 16,000,000 acres more land with at least 50,000 fewer farm workers.

The King's Sons

Contrary To General Opinion They Are Always Busy

A very busy member of the Royal family these days is the Prince of Wales, who is taking a very keen interest in various schemes to promote employment and to alleviate the lot of the unemployed.

Charities for the unemployed are receiving his enthusiastic support, and he has recently undertaken a lengthy series of provincial tours to study unemployment, relief schemes at first hand. His appeal to the public to help the unemployed by "personal service" is widely placarded throughout Britain.

Then there is Prince George, the King's youngest son, who is very enthusiastic about his new job as a factory inspector attached to the Home Department. In recent weeks the Prince has inspected several factories with the thoroughness of an expert.

Of King George's two other sons the world seldom hears about the Duke of Gloucester, the third son, who has taken up soldiering as a career, while the Duke of York, the second son, a married man, with two daughters, develops a good proportion of his time to industrial warfare work.

How Times Have Changed

Serene Old Age Went Out Of Fashion With Arrival Of Jazz

Observing that "lovely, serene old age" went out of style with the arrival of the jazz era, Dr. Louis Augustin, political scientist and economist, in a lecture at Chicago recently, said:

"Statistics prove that more day and make-up were sold in the last few years than were used for house paint in the whole history of the republic!"

More Cows Than People

New Zealand has more cows than people, according to a livestock census which has just been completed. At the time of the compilation there were 1,702,000 dairy cows and only 1,500,000 residents. In a year the number of hooves increased by 100,000. Only one of every five pounds of butter produced is eaten in the country.

Registration of private automobiles in Great Britain in a recent month was 63 per cent. greater than in the corresponding period of 1931.

Leads World In Fatalities

Accidental Death Rate Is Highest In United States

"The United States, according to reliable reports, leads the civilized world in its accidental death rate," says Miss Dorothy Kallen, editor of the Baltimore Health News. The accidental death rate in the United States was 9.6 per 100,000 of population in 1930. For Canada the rate was 6.39, the next highest, she pointed out, England and Wales, however, had a rate of but 4.28, just a fraction over half that of the United States.

"It is true," she continued, "our country has more automobiles, more machinery and more hazards of various types than other countries have, but apparently we have not made adequate preparation for safeguarding our people against them. Highway streamlining, and a 1918 model locomotive on the tracks today would look as odd as a 1918 model automobile would look on the highway."

Chinese Clubs and Creeds

Adherents Of Islam Are In Majority In Nanking, China

The Nanking Correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor says it is not often realized how large a part Mohammedanism plays in China, but statistics compiled by the Nanking municipality show that more adherents of Islam are enrolled in the capital than those of any other religion. Professing Mohammedans number 257,000, whereas Buddhism, the predominant religion of China, claims only 23,310. Protestant Christians number 21,400, Taoists 2,900, Catholics 125. A majority of government workers in Nanking do not profess any religion, but are adherents of Confucianism, an ethical cult. A large number enroll themselves as "agnostics."

A Trusting Machine

An automatic machine has appeared in England which sells paper towels to customers first and collects the money afterwards. It was found that most people washed their hands first and then began to hunt through pockets with wet hands for a coin for the towel machine. The new machine has been made on the assumption that most people are honest.

A dollar goes farther now, but it doesn't come back so quick.

Difficult To Believe

More Than Half Canada's Population Under 25 Years Of Age

It is difficult to believe that more than half the people in Canada are under 25 years of age. But such is the fact according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which reports that out of a population of 10,375,796 at the last census, 5,331,901 are below the age named.

That circumstance is both the weakness and the strength of the country. The proportion of citizens under 25 is exceptionally high, and steadiness should be found early in the twenties. On the other hand the potentialities are enormous. And it is upon the other people—the men in the Federal and provincial parliaments, the men at the head of the universities, colleges and training schools of all kinds, the men at the head of big business—who have to direct affairs so that the young generation may be wisely educated and trained to make a success of their lives and make this country a better place to live in every year.

With such a number of young people in the Dominion a great responsibility rests upon those who are older. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Design Has Been Changed

Locomotives Now Make Long Runs Without Any Rest

Only a few years ago it was necessary to change the design of passenger trains every 100 or 150 miles, but now there are locomotives hauling main line passenger trains that have increased in speed to high as 90 miles. This is the result of changes in design and the use of steel alloys in wearing parts, mechanical lubrication of greases, instead of oil in lubricated all wearing surfaces, the introduction of super-heaters to increase steam pressure and use of auxiliary engines, turbo-chargers, to increase power without adding much to the dead weight of the locomotive. Like auto motors, locomotives have been streamlined, and a 1918 model locomotive on the tracks today would look as odd as a 1918 model automobile would look on the highway.

Ecuador Claims Industry

Informs The World They Make All Panama Hats

Ecuador has become Panama hat country and wants everybody to know that the hats, woven by native Indians from palm fiber, are made in Ecuador and not in Panama, from which country they take their name. Letters by the Ecuadorian Postal service are stamped with rubber stamps telling the world about the hats that have made Panama famous. Letters addressed to the United States and other English-speaking countries bear a legend inside a heavy box border reading "Panama, Ecuador." The stamps are made in Ecuador.

Other stamps used on letters to other destinations impart the same information in Spanish, English, French, Italian and German.

Breaking the Ice

Two Englishmen bound for New York had at side by side on deck chairs without exchanging a word. On the third day one of them fell asleep and his book came down on the deck with a thud. It also broke the ice. The other man picked up the book and the following dialogue took place: "Thanks very much." "Giving across?" "Yes."

Recognized "Last Post"

During the funeral of a colonel in Bournemouth, England, recently, the "Last Post" was played by buglers. Some distance away a city cart horse heard the strains with ears pricked up, and refused to move until after the last note. Inquiry disclosed that the animal had been in Flanders during the World War.

Resume Steamship Line

Canadian National steamships will re-enter the north Atlantic shipping trade next month, provided the demand for cattle passage additional to the already available on the St. Lawrence route is maintained.

The photographic library of the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, contains approximately 600,000 air photographs and about 20,000 ground photographs indexed as to locality and subject.

Gardening Notes

By Gordon Lindsay Smith.

A supply of stakes of various heights will be found very useful in both the flower and the vegetable garden. They are driven into the ground on either side of a clump of perennials with a wire joining the top will give splendid support to Delphiniums, Peonies, Phloxes and other plants with growing tips which, if not supported, are almost sure to be tumbled about by a heavy summer rain.

Staking should be done early in the spring, just after growth starts. Gradually the upper foliage will grow all around and over the stakes, thus holding them but at the same time being supported. In certain cases where the stems are straight and the blooms very heavy, such as with Peonies, it may be advisable to make the joining wires in the shape of a hoop. Very tall, straight-staked affairs like Hollyhock, Cosmos and Delias will be strengthened by one, four or five foot stakes, driven close beside and tied loosely about every foot to the stem.

Ordinary cedar, pine or bamboo wood makes good staking material, and also very stout, galvanized wire. Something new in this line has recently appeared on the market. This is a steel stake with knobs about every six inches, like some of the walking sticks, which prevent tied strings from slipping. It is as rigid as wood and about as cheap but has the additional advantage of being very easily driven and removed and of indefinite life. Painted a brown or green, these half-inch steel stakes are very inconspicuous.

Some flower seed—Some hardy annuals can be sown outdoors where they are to bloom, writes Miss Isabelle Brown of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The soil should be in good condition, well dug and raked, and made quite fine before sowing. The seed should be sown when the soil is rather dry. The depth of planting depends on the size of the seed. Small ones are sown very shallow and are pressed into the soil with a flat piece of wood. For larger ones, remove an inch or two of soil and sow thinly, then press down the soil and surplus soil and press down evenly.

In a border, the seed should be sown in an uneven circle with stakes driven out from the center. When the seedlings are a few inches high, thin them out to a distance apart according to the mature height of the plant. Do the thinning out when the seedlings are moist. Those annuals broadcast or sown in the clumps are Alyssum, Candytuft, Calendula, Cornflower, Eschscholzia, Sunflower, Matthiola Bicornis, Mignonette, Nasturtium, Poppy, Portulaca and Virginian Stock. Those annuals which are best sown in rows and transplanted to their permanent position in the border as seedlings include Antennaria, Coreopsis, Lavatera splendens, Mignonette, Nicotiana glauca, Pansy, Penstemon, Phlox Drummondii, Rudbeckia and Scabiosa.

Different Kinds Of Lettuce: No garden is complete without lettuce, which is the basis of most salads; and yet too often one depends upon a single variety. The end of the bed with a few weeks after using turner lettuce and there is nothing to replace it. But this is not necessary. One can select two or three varieties of the best sort and if planted at intervals of a week from the first day that gardening opens until well on in May or June, a steady month of supply is secured. Include one or two good varieties of the Head type. Following this one can depend on Cos Lettuce. The latter is a sort of head sort but is much narrower. It is self-blanching and will stay fresh and crisp for several days if sprinkled with water and stored in refrigerator or cool cellar. It is lettuce delicate in rich, loamy soil, plenty of cultivation and nitrogen fertilizer.

An Honorable Livory

Overalls are a livory as honorable as the robe of a judge, or the cocked hat of a Speaker of Parliament. Hence in our estimate of those to whom we owe a great debt in this great business of transportation we cannot forget the man who waits the tracks. Let us put him on our roll of honor too.—C. N. E. Federal Government Economies In Reduction Of Expenditures Results In Saving Of $81,000,000

Reductions in controllable expenditures over the last three years, coupled with the $14,000,000 provided in the last budget, have resulted in total government economies of $81,000,000. Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, stated in a circular letter forwarded to all Canadian Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade which recently called upon the federal administration to "set a good example" in matters of economy.

"The government is in cordial sympathy with the objects you have in mind," Mr. Rhodes wrote. He expressed the opinion that all factors of the problem, in respect to government expenditures, had not been considered.

Even if every salary, pension and parliamentary indemnity were cancelled, there would still be a deficit of $28,000,000,000 in the non-controllable expenditures, he wrote.

"Furthermore," he proceeded, "may I point out that for two years past, through action of the treasury board, promotions and increases of pay have been held in abeyance, and as vacancies have occurred in the government service the positions have been abolished. These and other restrictions have resulted in a reduction in the total charge for salaries and wages of $4,500,000 per annum, and a reduction of over 4,000 employees. This is in addition to the saving of $8,300,000 per annum effected by the 10 per cent. reduction from all salaries and wages."

"In calling for economies, it is erroneously assumed that reductions in controllable expenditure could be made to such an extent as to balance the budget without resort to additional taxation. I submit a few figures in round sums which will indicate the impossibility of such a suggestion."

"Based upon the taxation measures in force prior to the last budget, estimated revenue for the fiscal year 1933-34 is $287,000,000, our estimated expenditure for the coming year is $447,000,000, in which are included the following items of uncontrollable expenditure:

Interest charges, $132,000,000.
Canadian National Railways deficit, $55,000,000.
Pensions and soldiers' care $38,000,000.

Subsidies to provinces, $15,000,000.
Old age pensions, $12,000,000.

Unemployment relief, $25,000,000.

"These items are fixed and uncontrollable beyond question with the possible exception of that for unemployment relief, but, having regard to existing conditions in Canada and the inescapable demands which are made upon the Dominion treasury in this connection, this item cannot be fairly be included. The total of the above items is $212,000,000."

"It will thus be observed that if we were in a position to eliminate every dollar of so-called controllable expenditure we would still have a deficit of $28,000,000. That is to say if we were in a position to dismiss approximately 56,000 permanent civil servants (not including casual employees); stop their superannuation payments in breach of contract; pay no indemnities to members of parliament or to senators; pay no judges' salaries; dismiss penitentiary staffs, the mounted police force, all customs officers, lighthouse keepers, harbor masters, etc.; in other words, if the government were to dismiss every civil servant and close all government activities, there would still be a deficit of $26,000,000."

Depth Of The Sea

New Deep Sea Sounding Is Made In Pacific Ocean

A new deep in the bed of the Pacific Ocean was reported in a message from the U.S.S. Ramapo, Capt. C. M. Mayo, commanding the vessel, which reported that the reported use of the sonic depth finder, the deep had been measured at 5,001 fathoms, or 33,006 feet, it was found. The message said, at latitude 20.43 north, longitude 142.20 east, which would place it directly across the Pacific Ocean from San Diego near the coast of Japan.

The new sounding approached the greatest known depth, that of 34,210 feet found in the Mindanao trench northeast of the island by that name in the Philippine group.

Education and Economy

Carrying Nailing To The Point Where Essential Education Is Denied

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer reports that in 15 out of the 48 states in the American union, public schools have been closed and no other provision has been made to continue child education.

In 40 states, school terms have been abridged to save money, and thousands of children have been deprived, to the extent of the abridgement of educational opportunities that should be theirs.

In 35 states, the teaching staffs have been reduced to the point where classes are overcrowded and can not be taught properly.

In sum, concludes the Post-Intelligencer, the whole public school system of the nation faces an imminent breakdown, the disastrous social and moral effects of which will be felt for a generation. The newspaper concludes by denouncing the "false economy" that breeds ignorance, poverty and crime."

All economy in educational affairs is not, of course, false economy. There are and should be true economy, an elimination of extravagance and waste, a pruning away of harmful and unfruitful expenditures. But in economies, as in extravagancies, we tend to run to extremes, and there is a real danger, in Vancouver as in the cities and towns across the international boundary, that, in trimming away educational facilities the admitted rights of the rising generation shall be invaded. We are piling up problems enough for that tremendous heritage of debt, which we didn't inherit but created. We must leave them, if we are to be fair, all the facilities possible for solving the problems we are throwing at them. And we are not leaving them all the facilities possible if we give them fewer educational advantages than we can by hook or by crook, provide. Vancouver Province.

Uses Of Wood In Canada

A Considerable Proportion Is Still Used For Fuel Purposes

According to figures compiled by the Forest Service, Department of the Interior, the use of wood for fuelwood still continues to be one of the main uses of wood in the Dominion: 30.7 per cent. of the wood cut is consumed in this way. The volume of wood that goes to the sawmill is still greater, by almost one-quarter, constituting 38.7 per cent. of the total quantity of wood cut. Third in importance among the uses of wood, in respect of volume of wood used, comes pulpwood: 24.2 per cent. of the consumption of wood goes for this purpose. The quantity of wood utilized for railway ties makes a respectable total: seven per cent. of the total consumption of wood, and sawn ties 2.25 per cent.—a total of 5.75 per cent. for all ties. Fences still require a considerable amount of wood: about one and one-half per cent. of the aggregate, and poles, pilings, and similar products form one-half of one per cent.

Salvage Job Too Costly

Raising Sunk German Fleet Proved Too Great A Problem

The story of the raising of a portion of the German fleet sunk by German crews at Scapa Flow was told to Manchester members of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers by E. F. Cox, head of the salvage firm which undertook the operation. Cox said the firm about 150,000, said Mr. Cox, and they lost money by it. Vessels were sometime upside-down, and in one instance the divers reported three destroyers in a heap, two lying crosswise over a third. One problem was how to locate the vessels which the Germans had opened to sink her. The valves once located, it was no easy job to put on patches. The divers had to search the sides of the vessel thoroughly for holes and had to put on 800 patches. One of the patches cost £2,000. It was not until three days later were they able to bring the Hindenburg to the surface in a stable position without a dangerous list.

London had a fog which was practically continuous from November, 1870, to February, 1880. It was the worst period of fog ever recorded there. White horse leather shoes will be vague in Italy this spring.

Reclaiming Zuyder Zee

Work In Holland Will Take Twenty-Five Years

The work of reclaiming Holland's Zuyder Zee will probably require 25 years, V. Z. P. Jolkes van Kesteren, director of the project, said recently while in London. The new land will ultimately be used for agricultural purposes, he said. It will at first be used for pastoral purposes and later turned into crop-growing land.

Approximately 900 persons already live on the reclaimed land, and approximately one-third of the area is under cultivation. Work will be provided for 3,000 persons when the project is completed, Kuffeler said.

The Zuyder Zee is being enclosed by a dam about 20 miles long. Within the enclosure will be embanked "four parts called polders, from which the sea will be pumped. The main dam already has been completed, and the first polder probably will be finished next year."

Flour Milling In Canada

The most important manufacturing industry connected with field crops in Canada is flour milling, which dates back to the settlement at Port Royal (now Annapolis, N.S.) in 1605.

Jig-Saw Puzzles Give People Chance To Fumble

Jig-saw puzzle addicts are "fumble" in the opinion of Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton, head of the department of psychology at Temple University, Philadelphia.

But they may be consoling, for most of the great men and women in history have been "fumble." The solution to some of the greatest world problems were found by "fumbling," Dr. Bolton said.

"The jig-saw puzzle," he said, "is just a device that calls out in great vigor the process of fumbling in random fashion. The jig-saw puzzle is a person with more than ordinary, even if temporary, disposition to fumble around and take chances until some chance reveals a step."

"The craze for the puzzle is a response to this disposition in human nature. The matter of fumbling is a method of solving a problem. One-half of the world is held in bondage to the fascination of looking for chances. The jig-saw puzzle exercises both hand fumbling and idea fumbling, with emphasis on the fumbling of hands."

"Fuzzling is by nature persistent fun. Variation is the method of evolution. It is the critical moment in invention and discovery. Inventors are given to fuzzling. The claim that they reason things out is not well-founded."

"Puzzling is a problem-solving process. Life is made up of problems. Those who grope to solve the greatest problem solvers hold the high places."

Alberta Issues Tourist Book

Shows Beauty and Grandeur Of Famous Holiday Resorts

"Masterpieces of Nature" is the title of a new booklet of photographic reproductions of bits of grandeur in Alberta, issued by the publicity commissioner of the Alberta Government. Colin G. Groat.

There are 15 plates of scenic Alberta in the booklet, bound in an attractive cover of black and gold.

"The enchantment of Waterton Lakes, the beauty of Banff National Park and the grandeur of Jasper, and a few words about the province itself are shown. The booklet is a masterpiece of design and layout, and the outside world something of the beauty and the grandeur for which Alberta's holiday resorts are justly famous."

The black and gold color scheme is carried through the booklet, in the photographs, the title, the printer, W. D. McLean.

Leads In Homicide Rate

Murder Is Becoming Ingenious Art In United States

"Murder more than ever is becoming an ingenious art, if not a trade in the United States. Dr. Frederick B. Hoffman, of New York, statistician, concluded, after a survey of 100 American cities. He found the United States led the civilized nations of the world in the homicide rate for 1922.

Memphis, Tenn., had the highest rate of the 180 cities with 54.24 per 100,000 population, but Dr. Hoffman pointed out that the high rate may be due to an admission to Memphis hospitals of cases from outside the city.

A score of the cities surveyed had no homicides in 1922. The rate for the United States was 19.5 per 100,000. Dr. Hoffman compared this with 0.9 in England and Wales.

Hannas Grow On A Tall Plant which is really an overgrown herb.

Of all the myriad voices with which spring speaks to mankind none is more generally beloved or more widely recognized than the return of the birds. Among our waterfowl the most conspicuous is undoubtedly the Canada goose, "honker," traveling day and night over town as well as country in wedge-shaped flocks led by birds of fire experience these birds of the wild are strikingly emblematic of spring. A few Canada geese winter in the southern coastal parts of the Dominion such as southern Nova Scotia and south-western British Columbia but most of them spend the winter in some part of the United States. There are large wintering grounds on the coast of the Carolinas around the gulf of Mexico, and in California. From these areas the geese begin to move northward in February. They do not hurry on their way but pause at various suitable places in the settled regions of Canada in March and April and await the breaking of the icy bonds of the more northerly waters along which they will nest.

In both Canada and the United States the Canada birds, as well as all other waterfowl, perform their spring migration in peace and safety from shooting because of the protection afforded at that time of the year by a treaty between the two countries known as the Migratory Birds Convention, the administration of which rests upon the responsibility of the Department of the Interior and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Even though the guns are silent in the spring the Canada birds are a host of natural difficulties and dangers to meet, such as storms, food scarcity, and drought.

Of course Canada geese are by no means alone as the feathered hangers of spring. Pressing eagerly forward to reclaim the land as it is freed from retreating winter, are a great host of other birds, both waterfowl, such as ducks and gulls, and song birds or insect-eaters of a great variety. One of the earliest and most familiar of the song birds is the robin, whose joyous carol is sounded from the top of some leafless maple long before the ice and snow have left us. Other early arrivals among land birds are the crow, the various species of songbirds, and the humble sparrow, whose simple cheerful song is undoubtedly most appreciated in early spring before it is drowned in the chorus of more gifted voices that arrive later.

Although the birds that land the way are most eagerly welcomed as messengers of spring yet the fact is that the northward migration of birds in southern Canada continues to grow like a swelling tide through the month of April and does not reach its height until about the middle of May. Typical and conspicuous birds among these later arrivals are the swallows commonly seen as they circle about overhead in pursuit of their insect prey; the orioles whose gay colours and martial notes bring back to the attention of the beholder the holidays which they mark in ecstasy over the greening meadows drenching them with their wonderful songs. Birds such as these, arriving in Canada when the weather has become more settled, generally return on a rather exact schedule arriving about the same time each year. It is interesting to note that the time of their return has a more direct relation to the state of development of vegetation and of insect life in the region than to the man-made calendar and mankind will never cease to wonder at the instinct that brings the brilliant back north from far-away Brazil just the right time to avoid April moves and starvation on the one hand and to help prevent an undue increase in the numbers of voracious insects in the grasslands on the other.

Building More Active

Continued activity for April was almost equal to the combined totals of January, February and March, according to figures compiled by Macmillan Building, Limited, Contractors awarded throughout Canada for April totalled $4,608,700 as compared with $3,191,000 in March and similar amounts for January and February.

"Fresh from the Garden"

World Co-operation In Prospect

Events of the past few weeks have concentrated attention on the interdependence of the nations of the world, and, by their promise of a general attack on a world scale upon the major problems of the hour, have injected new hope in suffering humanity that at last a serious effort is being made to cure the ills which have prostrated the world economic system. Conversations of leading statesmen at Washington, definite assurance that the world economic conference will be held in London next month, the prospect that solution will be found in improved tariff arrangements and adoption of an international monetary unit, have had immediate beneficial effect in the markets of the world, and appear to have restored some of the confidence lost in the crash of 1929 and the bitter years since.

Canada, in particular, faces the task of committing its new crop to the fertile soil with a renewed optimism and a higher courage. Assurance from Washington and Ottawa of reciprocal agreements in the offing that will tend to reopen channels of trade long made barren and unproductive by prohibitive tariff barriers, have produced a most welcome reaction in the Prairie West. Confronted with this looms possibility of an easing of the general trade situation in Continental Europe where Canadian wheat has found continually increasing obstacles to overcome—obstacles created by local fears and narrow prejudices. The move toward world co-operation bears with it also the harbinger of such conditions as will make effectively beneficial the Empire trade agreements commenced at Ottawa, last year. With these auspicious circumstances encouraging him, no wonder the Prairie Farmer shows higher hopes with his seed this year!

The idea that an international problem can only be tackled successfully in an international way, was long in penetrating the minds of many world statesmen. This may have been due to the fact that statesmen are proverbially hesitant of moving in advance of public opinion—and it is a fact that public opinion, since the war, nurtured on fears and desperations, has been notoriously nationalistic in sentiment in virtually every civilized country. In consequence, the nations have sparred desultorily to evade adjustment, despite the general abhorrence of war, and have erected tariff barriers in the futile hope of developing self-contained national economies, despite the fact that a customs port may be more provocative than a concrete fort. The resultant stimulation of minor hostilities has tended to retard constructive action upon the economic problems; but the strangulation of world trade with its accompaniment of widespread unemployment and almost universal suffering, has finally served to awaken general realization of the essential interdependence of nations, and recognition of the fact that the sure path to recovery lies through co-operation. Even France, with all her hoards of gold, has been forced recently to borrow $150,000,000 from England to buttress the franc, demonstrating that in this day and generation no country is so organized as to be able to live of itself alone.

Generally speaking, therefore, it may be said that the world at large has become internationally-minded; and that is a sign that common sense is reasserting itself. In Germany alone would there appear to be a reactionary movement towards a narrower nationalism, but the movement in Germany is capable of a dual interpretation. It may be true that Herr Hitler and his Nazi army have resurrected some of the more subversive characteristics of Prussian "junkerism" in their so-called "bloodless revolution"; but it is also true that Herr Hitler has evinced a willingness to negotiate with other nations of the world not only in matters of trade and commerce but also in matters of armaments. The new Germany, therefore, while driven along initially in a narrow nationalistic regime, may be more subliminally, with the "administrative ideals of a sergeant-major" (as Gaudinax would say), be awake to the necessity of co-operation in the wider field of world politics and trade in the interests of world peace and world prosperity. That is to say, the rigors of the Nazi discipline may appear to be fundamentally constructive of the German commonwealth against the peril within the gates rather than aimed at any imaginary peril from without. In any case, the German international situation does not necessarily impair prospects of a successful solution of the world economic problem, nor weaken the hope of a restoration of normal trade relations among the countries of the world.

British Authority Says Cinderella's Slippers Were Fur and Not Glass

Cinderella's slippers, popularly supposed to have been made of glass, really were made of fur, according to Sir Gerald Wollaston, garter king-of-arms and an authority on heraldry. He told members of the Royal Society of Arts that the slipper was made of "vair," which is heraldic fur of white and blue. The other idea, he said, came from a confusion with the French "verre," meaning glass.

HAS LOST FAT FOR THREE YEARS

68 lbs. Gone Altogether

A woman writes: "For nearly three years I have been taking Kruschen Salts every morning in water and I have lost 68 lbs. of fat. My weight before taking them was 196 lbs. and it is now 128 lbs. Compared to the distance I have travelled, my mother and sister are like the fat of the land. I have no friends, and think they are wonderful. As regards diet, it is not necessary to eat a little bit of dieting. In my case I have never denied myself anything, and I have lost 68 lbs. Kruschen Salts. I walk every day, and do not eat many potatoes, but I do eat sugar. I don't think I shall ever be grateful enough to Kruschen Salts for the great help they have given me, and shall never stop taking them, or recommending them to my friends."—(Miss K. T.)

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of unguessed food substances and all excessive weight, and is a most comfortable and happy a luxury. Nature will eventually sort it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat.

Need More Cattle Steamers

Western Brokers Claim Only Six Available For Trade

Neglect of the Dominion Government to subsidize ocean tramps to enter the Canadian cattle trade is strongly resented at Winnipeg. Brokers of the point out that only six tramp steamers are available to this trade, that two British companies have chartered these boats and that the tramp steamer owners some months ago offered to pay half the cost of fitting up the boats to carry cattle if the Dominion Government would pay the other half.

The Dominion Government was silent on this issue. Today, as a consequence, the transatlantic cattle trade is limited only by the capacity of these steamers to carry cattle. They are scheduled to carry 450 each every three weeks to British Columbia, a steamer which will mean that a maximum for the year of 45,000 will be exported.

Canada could easily export 100,000 head it is claimed. The cost of fitting a boat is about $12 per head of cattle capacity. A boat big enough to take 500 head would cost $6,000. A boat to carry 400 head would cost $4,800.

Impressed By Visit

British Vice-Admiral Gives Account Of Trip To Canada

Vice-Admiral Francis Wade Caulfield gives a breezy account of a six-week's visit to Canada in his report as president of the association of retired naval officers.

His headquarters were at Vancouver, recently turned over to me. Affairs connected with this property or settlement (called Caulfield after my father, who bought it as virgin forest, and started to develop it at the end of the last century) necessitated a visit to the Pacific coast, and so, incidentally, gave me the opportunity of meeting A.R.N.O. members of whom, in September, there were 24 scattered between Nova Scotia and Alaska. It was a strenuous, but splendid six weeks. The welcome given me everywhere was something to be forgotten and remembered and should like to take this opportunity of once again thanking my various hosts and hostesses for their charming hospitality and the truly delightful and extraordinarily interesting time they gave me.

One member (working on a farm through agricultural university degree) was pitching corn, another was running a ferry, another was perched on top of a sort of Eiffel Tower as a "look-out" in the forest area of Ontario. A fourth member owned and worked a 20 acre fruit farm. Another, who had been a brewer, was on their land, and hardly a tree but carried 2,000, some nearly 5,000 apples; whilst a fourth, a J.P. in the Rocky Mountains, and friend and foe to the whole of his little community. In fact, his word "went," and little was in his district without the knowledge and approval of "The Commander."

"Everyone who was dependent on pension or English income was living badly. The pound sterling value dropped from $4.86 to $3.80 and 'servants' were becoming a luxury. It was a sad state of affairs, but comfortable and happy a luxury. I was in a house sans servants, but fitted with labor saving appliances, cheap electricity, and a cheerful and efficient housewife."

Support Land Scheme

Regina To Participate In Provincial Back To The Land Plan

Decision to participate in the provincial government's back to the land scheme was reached by Regina city council recently, although some criticism was directed to two points in the scheme. Protested points were that the cost per family will be higher this year than last, and the change in policy of the government this year compared with that in effect last year.

Under this year's scheme the municipal government participating in the scheme is required to agree to undertake to contribute one-third of the expenditure per family up to $400 and, further, to assume one-third of an additional expenditure over $400 but limited to an additional $200.

Last year the cost to the city per family was $100 and some citizens felt those who went out under last year's plan would have ground for objection to an advantage given to those going under this year's plan.

CHAPTER X
For a moment, groping about to retrieve his blunder, Buzzard hardly knew what to say or do. There had been no mistake; he had seen that incident with his own eyes when he glanced through the window to find where Alan was. He debated whether to draw back the wrapping paper, or to plunge ahead and tell the rest of it—Joyce's momentary battle, the shudder that swept her whole body when she put the scarf down, and the quick blinding tears that she dashed away.

He thought, "Better not get any deeper into this. I'd only blunder again. Better back out entirely."

He stammered, "I might have made a mistake. I might—uh—it might have been the wrapping paper. Why would any person want to burn up a gift like that? Let's forget it."

His tones carried no conviction. He realized it himself. Alan disbelieved him. Alan knew Joyce had burned the scarf he gave her.

Cursing himself hotly, Buzzard looked out across the purpling river. He had meant only the best, and he had dealt Alan a savage pitiless blow. After a little time Alan said to him:

"You'd better go up, Buzzard; she may be waiting for us."

"Aren't you going?"

"No—not now. I don't much care. I don't want supper."

Something in his voice warned Buzzard not to urge him. As he turned away, Alan said, in the tones of a man who has made some hard and abiding decision:

"When you've had supper, come back down here. I'll help you with that scarf; we'll do it now, so we can get away early. I was thinking—for this evening—something else. But that's out now. . . ."

Buzzard lifted the plane out of the Big Alouka. With Alan directing him, he headed due north.

One hundred and thirty miles away, nearly four hundred miles from Fort Endurance, a small tribe of Tinnia lived along the western fringes of the Thar-Azrah. They were a tiny, skulking, inoffensive band, shrouded into a region where other tribes sought to live. Dave MacMillan had been their friend and they brought him their furs; and Alan, during his years at Endurance, had sent a protective patrol to their village.

Joyce had found out where they were spending this summer; and Alan had a mission with their old headman, Mugwa-Ethien.

When the timber country began yielding to lakes and semi-muskeg, he got out his glasses and started searching ahead for their camp. At a height of five thousand feet he could sweep a region of more than two hundred thousand acres. The eyes of the eagle, the wings of a pelican, the curlew, and that big-barreled Browning machine gun—through luck and driving purpose and with faith in his direction, he had dashed through obstacles till now he held the power and heavy odds over those bandits.

His knowledge of a party in men about all that was left to him. His work in the Mounted, his life here in the North, were both gone; and Buzzard's catenetic vision, that evening had showed him that his secret hope toward Joyce had been a fool's hope, a fool's wishful thinking.

For a low moment he must have felt in estimation, that she should burn his gift to her! At first it had seemed a little cruel of Joyce to do that. But then he looked at the incident with relentless honesty, and he could not blame her. Once he and she had planned to marry. Though not spoken of, it had been generally accepted along the River. She had liked him, loved him. What must her feelings have been as she watched his relations with Elizabeth, and saw him engaged to another girl and coming no more to the Big Alouka? She must have felt shame, a burning shame, at being jilted. Month after lonely month of that—it had been an outrage to her girlhood. Nothing she could do to him could be so heinous as what he had done to her.

Through the propeller disk, at last sighted the Indian camp, a clearing of brown water, a patch of lake where the band was passing the summer near their fish weirs. Buzzard roared over the camp and landed. The old Mugwa-Ethien, a gaunt and wrinkled old savage, stalked up and gravely bade them welcome.

When this flood season of heavy rains, Alan knew there was a few areas in the vicinity wilderness of the Thar-Azrah, where a party of men could camp. He himself had only a hazy idea where those areas lay; but this old headman, Mugwa-Ethien, who followed the Caribou, had lived his life along the border of that great marsh and knew it better than any man alive, and could probably give him a pretty definite idea where to look.

Very wisely, Joyce had kept from letting the nomad bands know of the fact of the fugitive. Buzzard had a good judge of speed, attitude and the right spirit-stance to release. Whirling over the island, a few hundred yards up, he planted the missile with in a dozen paces of the flap-trap.

As they looked back they saw the man run out to it, read the message, hesitate a moment, and then raise his left arm, waving something white.

A pistol-shot off the island the plane lifted. Buzzard stayed in the machine. Alan and Bill got into the canvas canoe, slipped automatically into their pockets, took rifles prominently in hand and went ashore.

While Bill scoured the bank for a hidden revolver, Alan looked at him curiously. He was a strange character to find in this country. Blunt, his skin olive, he looked as though he had oriental blood in his veins. The rag he had in his hand was of a pipe-laying job next.

Alan demurred. "Are you the fellow we hit in that fight?"

"Chink," Woolley nodded.

"Are those other men out hunting?" Alan asked, "or where?"

Woolley batted his eyes slowly, as though taking thought. "Huntin', they're managed."

"Which way?"

"North-east."

High Above the Clouds

Test Balloons Sent Up From Airport

Canada's knowledge of conditions in the stratosphere high above the clouds has been enriched by recovery of nine of 16 meteorological balloons released at the Calgary airport since last August.

Announcement of the recovery of the balloons was made by Lieutenant Commander C. H. Bromley, representative of the Dominion meteorological service at Calgary, when he reported that the balloons each with reading were carried on in Canada's share in the international polar year investigations.

Nine miles above the earth—a mile short of the height reached by Professor Auguste Piccard in his balloon expedition to investigate the stratosphere—was the highest any of the balloons released here reached. Some expanded and burst when only three miles high, but the average altitude was 40,000 feet—almost eight miles.

"Swing north," he shouted at Buzzard. "Those idiots there to themselves."

The machine swerved and thundered closer. One by one Alan started to search the five. On the first one he found nothing. On the second, nothing. On the third, . . . He started suddenly as he caught that center one in clear focus. Below them, on that island, conspicuous to their sky patrol, stood a solitary dirty white tent.

After a few moments Alan had presence of mind again. He leaned forward and shouted instruction: "Drop down to a thousand feet. Fly over that island again, slow. Want to study it carefully before we start things."

Buzzard dropped down, swung around. As the plane sailed over a second time, Alan drew the island up to him studying the tent sharply. He saw movement of the flagpole and distinguished a man's face, upturned, peering at them.

One bandit there at least! But the others?

A guess shot into his mind: those others had probably gone hunting for caribou over east at the fable.

As though that weather there had realized what this ominous circling meant and had become panicky, a puff of white, a single puff, burst from the flap-trap. Confident the man was alone and the others were gone, Alan decided to take this blunder, alive. He needed information about the others, and information about that pack of furs to clear Dave MacMillan.

While Buzzard circled at a safe distance, he tore a page from a memo book and printed a message:

"If you shoot again, we'll splatter you and that island into the air with our machine guns. Stand out in the clear. No weapons on you. Don't try any crooked move after we light."

He wrapped the message around a monkey wrench and handed it to Buzzard. From wartime practice of dropping "eggs" on ammunition dumps and second-chance flares, Buzzard had a good judge of speed, attitude and the right spirit-stance to release. Whirling over the island, a few hundred yards up, he planted the missile with in a dozen paces of the flap-trap.

As they looked back they saw the man run out to it, read the message, hesitate a moment, and then raise his left arm, waving something white.

A pistol-shot off the island the plane lifted. Buzzard stayed in the machine. Alan and Bill got into the canvas canoe, slipped automatically into their pockets, took rifles prominently in hand and went ashore.

While Bill scoured the bank for a hidden revolver, Alan looked at him curiously. He was a strange character to find in this country. Blunt, his skin olive, he looked as though he had oriental blood in his veins. The rag he had in his hand was of a pipe-laying job next.

Alan demurred. "Are you the fellow we hit in that fight?"

"Chink," Woolley nodded.

"Are those other men out hunting?" Alan asked, "or where?"

Woolley batted his eyes slowly, as though taking thought. "Huntin', they're managed."

"Which way?"

"North-east."

Appointed a Deputy

King George Got Out of a Difficulty

Created Long Ago

In connection with the annual Easter yearly meetings it is recalled that about 150 years ago the King was elected church warden. It was George III, who was given this distinction by the famous London churchman, Martin-in-the-Fields, but his majesty did not take it as a compliment and refused to serve.

Buckingham Palace being in the parish church members at a vestry meeting, probably moved by some freshish wind, named the King as the people's warden for a year. The monarch's refusal to accept the office led to a threat to take action at law to compel him to do so. The question as to how far the sovereign in his private capacity might be bound to undertake such duties was left in doubt because King George got out of the difficulty by accepting election and then appointing a deputy.

Little Helps For This Week

"This God is our God forever and ever; He will be our guide even unto death."—Psalm 48:14.

Be still my King; thy God doth undertake to the future as He has the past.

Thy hope, thy confidence left nothing mysterious shall be bright at the end of thy path.

He has kept and folded us from ten thousand ills when we did not know it. In the midst of our security we should have perished every hour but that He sheltered us "from the threat by night and the arrow that flith by day," from the powers of evil that walk in darkness, from snares of our own evil will. He has kept us even from ourselves and saved us from our own undoing. Let us read the traces of His hand in all our ways, in all the events, the changes and chances of this troubled state. It is He that folds and leads us that makes us to go in and out, to be faint or led pasture, to lie down by the still waters, or to walk by the still path, parched and desert. —J. E. Manning.

Reciprocal Trade Agreement

Reciprocal trade and tariff concessions between Germany and Great Britain were announced recently. The quota for British coal exports to Germany has been recently doubled and the United Kingdom makes tariff concessions over a limited field.

The announcement of arrangements of a trade with Germany follows upon an earlier statement declaring a new trade agreement with Denmark by which Great Britain's market in Denmark for her industrial products will be greatly increased in return for increased quotas granted to Danish dairy and agricultural products.

Contentment Without Riches

Man Found Peace in Life After

At Calcutta

In Newton, Iowa, is a man, Frank F. Falter, 74, who has lived three lives.

At 17 he was known as the richest cattle and purebred swine breeder in the middle west. He wore a silk topper, drove fast horses, and to outdo his neighbors he bought, possibly doubt, hired negro servants to wait on him. That was Life No. 1.

Shortly his success faded. He became penniless, and turned recluse, a man disgruntled with life, gloomy and seared with mankind. That was Life No. 2.

He became interested in religion and began to practise it conscientiously. His interests broadened and he started growing flowers about his little shack. He had started Life No. 3.

Today, tucked away among the bleaching glass roofs of greenhouses at the outskirts of Newton is the same shack. It has been so built over and around with flower houses and other buildings devoted to horticulture and gardening that few persons realize its presence.

Falter still lives in the shack, although he is worth more now, measured by the financial yardstick, than he ever was in Life No. 1.

But should he be content with success and failure, after all, were relative matters, but that peace of mind and happiness were important factors and that life which every person owed to himself.

Slaughter Of Wild Life

Man's Love Of Sport and Woman's

Dr. A. H. B. Kirkman, secretary for wild life, University of London Animal Welfare Society, speaking at a meeting recently, related a protest against cruelty to animals and birds. Vain women, ignorant gunkeepers, egg collectors and certain unfortunates of the "sport of women," he said, for cruelty to countless numbers of animals and birds.

There were about 16,000,000 birds entering the different markets of the world, excluding mules, rabbits and guinea pigs, in 1928, and 3,500,000 skins were exported from Australia alone. "The vanity of women," he said, "is partly responsible for this slaughter, but in connection with the persecution of animals and birds, as they call them, of men are as much at fault. In Sumatra families of the natives are being caught by native and sent to civilized countries to be used for certain medical purposes which are absolutely unnecessary. The killing of birds for the sake of animals for the most part."

Curse Of High Tariffs

World Has Been Goring Crazy Over Raising Trade Barriers

Tariffs throughout the world must come down, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said in the House of Commons recently. Canada, however, must be taken on a world-wide scale and it would be suicide for Canada, or any other single country to lower its tariffs while high duties are maintained by the rest of the world.

"I believe there is such a thing as going crazy over tariffs," said the minister, "and I think that is what the world has done."

Dr. Manion made his tariff comment by way of an aside as he was plotting amendments to the railway bill through the House. E. J. Young, veteran free trade Liberal from Weyburn, Sask, had just scurried low railway rates.

Manion said that the opening of channels of trade now closed would give the railway business a better chance.

Banks In Three Countries

U.S. Operates Under Many Laws, England and Canada Only One

A correspondent has asked the Transcript a question which thousands of people are asking: "Why do we never hear of banks closing their doors in England or Canada, no matter how hard the times?" An historian might favor his answer with humor: "It is because the United States, the most progressive nation on earth, is in this regard about one hundred years behind the procession." While Great Britain has merged her whole commercial banking system into five very strong institutions—Barclays, Lloyds, Provincial, Midland and Westminster—operating through the kingdom under but one law and plan of regulation, the United States has thousands and thousands of banks, most of them small units, operating under forty-nine different sets of laws and forty-nine different regulatory authorities, excellent in some states, as in Massachusetts, but varying from weak to miserable in many others.—Boston Transcript.

Popularity Of Air Travel

Bookings From London To Paris Are Increasing Daily

Before the air liner "City of Liverpool" crashed in flames the number of people flying to France by the Imperial Airways was about five a day. Now, after the crash, more than 130 people are travelling to Paris by air every day—and the bookings are still rising.

The bookings for Easter were the largest ever known. Every aeroplane had been duplicated, yet there were no more seats on the ordinary routes for Easter.

More aeroplanes are being added to the services to cope with the surprisingly heavy demand for seats. "This is by far the greatest increase for air liner seats that we have ever experienced," an Imperial Airways official said to a newspaper representative recently.

No More Mass Marriages

New Rector Of St. George's In London, England, Does Not Like Idea

Mass marriages, which have for years been a feature of the Easter festival at the Church of St. George the Martyr, Borough High Street, are to be held no more.

For years it has been the custom for young Southwark couples to get married in mass at St. George's on Easter Sunday. Some years there have been as many as ten couples kneeling at the altar at the same time, and one marriage service has married them all. But never again will ten betrothed couples have to take such a place in the rag upon the finger of the right bride, nor, after the ceremony, will ten wives run the risk of being blessed by the wrong husband. St. George's has a new rector, who does not like the idea of mass marriages. He is the Rev. E. C. Cook, who was formerly Vicar of All Saints, South Lambeth, and has been at Southwark only a few weeks.

"I am determined to have no more mass weddings at St. George's," Mr. Cook said the other day. "I don't think the young people are at all sorry. One of the chief reasons why several couples were married together was because it saved time, and I don't think the young people themselves specially desired it. When you have a number of couples being married at the same time it is impossible for them to regard the ceremony as a solemn sacrament."—Overseas Daily Mail.

Changing Editorship

Famous Boys' Own Paper To Have New Head

One of the most famous editorships in the British Empire, that of the Boys' Own Paper, is about to undergo a change. It is only the second change in this position since the paper was founded 51 years ago. Geoffrey Richard Pocklington, who has been editor for the last 11 years, is retiring.

Brought up in a family atmosphere of service to the church and to the army, Mr. Pocklington has been associated with all kinds of movements on behalf of boy's life for at least 30 years. A generation ago the supremacy of the "B.O.P." amongst papers of its kind was virtually unchallenged, and its following among boys of all ages is still very strong.

How many grey-haired and bald-headed boys of today are grateful to the "B.O.P." for having given them the works of Henry, Talbot, Baines, Reed and Acott? Hope? W. G. Grace, the snappish in cricket, Captain Webb, the first to swim the Channel, and who was drowned in the attempt to swim the Niagara rapids, wrote for the "B.O.P." and Whymper described his exploits on the Matterhorn in the same pages.

After a checked career of 333 years Archbishop Abbott's school, Guildford, England, has been closed for lack of funds.

MUSIC "HEARD" BY THE DEAF

Here is pictured a remarkable experiment recently conducted at a New York school for the deaf, whereby deaf children were enabled to hear. Instead of trying to make the sound penetrate the ears of the sufferers, this device carried mechanical vibrations through the bones of the head. Countess Olga Albert is shown singing into a microphone as the deaf children listen. This was the first time many of the children had ever heard music.

The Iceberg Patrol

Ocean Travellers Think Little Of Precautions Taken For Their Safety

Those who go down to the sea in ships on business or pleasure bet think little of the governmental precautions which protect their journeys. Yet in order that passengers on ocean liners may sleep sound of nights a ship is cruising near in the North Atlantic and experts are testing the direction, speed and volume of the Arctic water as it flows out of Davis Strait past Newfoundland.

There is no certainty in calculating the behaviour of icebergs, but only a reasonable degree of probability to be derived from continued observation. It is for this purpose that the Coast Guard cutter "General Greene" and other vessels keep their lonely patrol in the Arctic seas and send their warnings to liners as they race back and forth between England and Europe.—New York Evening Post.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS ASSERTS HIS KINGSHIP

Golden Text: "Behold, thy King cometh unto thee; He is just, and having salvation."—Zechariah 9:9. Lesson: Mark 11:1-13. Devotional Reading: Revelation 5: 9-13.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Publicly Claims To Be The Messiah, verses 1-10.—We have come to the solemn entry of Jesus into the Holy City in a triumphal procession for which He deliberately planned. We have heard Him caution some one not to report a miracle He has wrought, or charge the disciples to "tell no man that He is the Christ." And after the feeding of the five thousand He escaped to the hills when the people sought to make Him king. He has constantly feared that popular enthusiasm would hinder His mission. Now, however, another purpose is compelling Him to seek publicity, to court the enthusiastic worship of the people, to let the world know that He is the Messiah. He no longer delays interruption to His work. His hour has come.

When in the neighborhood of Bethpage and Bethany Jesus sent two of His disciples to secure for Him a colt that had never been ridden. Should their right to the colt be questioned by the owner, all they would need to say was that the Lord had commanded him and would return him. It all happened as Jesus said. The colt was found in the street at the door of a house, the disciples were challenged as thieves, and when they were allowed to lead the colt away, they threw their loose garments upon him as the colt as the seat for the ride.

"I beheld the procession descend the mountain bringing him," said the apostle to Ben Hur, "I heard him singing. They were beautiful with the melody. I looked everywhere among them for a figure with a promise of royalty—a horseman in purple, a chariot with a crown, a shining star, a stately warrior before an armed soldiery, a king in armor, a spear in stature. I looked for His guard. It would have been pleasant to have seen a prince of Judaea, and a cohort of the legions of Galilee, a Caesar's herald with a sword, I saw a Man, riding an ass' colt."

The manner of His riding into Jerusalem was in keeping with all that was appearing among men. The key-note of it was struck at the very beginning of that first Christmas when the King came as a helpless child, loaded with disabilities in place and family and position in the world. The stable and manger were only objects of derision to the people and all the other conditions of that birth of Jesus. Bethlehem was only a collection of huts and a manger to the manger to the manger. His life was consistent from the manger to the manger. He was the same Prince of Peace in His triumphal entry into Jerusalem as in His humble entry into Bethlehem.—Hugh Black.

King George Fully Recovered

Taking On Obligations For First Time Since 1928

For the first time since he was taken seriously ill in 1928, King George has plunged into the affairs and obligations of kingship with all his full-time enthusiasm.

Leaves, courts, race meetings, theatre attendances, troop inspections and yachting are among the things listed in the royal engagement book for this spring and summer, and this very heavy program is taken as an indication that the King is now restored to his full health and vigor.

Even the watchfulness of the royal physicians has been relaxed and the King was recently seen out without hat or topcoat. His Majesty, it is said, has never cared for the constant medical supervision exercised over him by his illness, and has been only too glad to point to his renewed health as a reason for the relaxation of this attention.

In a recent compensation claim case in Manchester, England, the judge ruled that a policeman is not a worker.

In Memoriam

In Sacred remembrance of Frankie, beloved son of David and Elizabeth
Scott, who died May 12th, 1929, aged
9 years and 9 months.

Oh, how we miss him, words cannot tell,
His dear smiling face, we loved so well.
The sweetest of memories is all that is left
Of a sweet darling boy, who has gone to his rest.

Hard, hard, was the blow, that compelled us to part
From our loved one so near and so
dear to our heart.

But the love that we bore him, will dwell in our breast
Till we meet him again, in the land of the blest.

We loved him in life, he is dear to us still,
In our grief we must bend to God's Holy Will.

It was, Oh so hard, the parting to bear,
But the angels will guard our loved one with care.

But it's sweet to know we'll meet again, where partings are no more
And that the one we dearly loved has only gone before.

Ever remembered by father, mother,
sisters and brothers.
